Barbara Drops Threat Charge Against Count

LONDON, July 13.—(UP)—A threats charge against Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, which shocked London society and marked the wreck of his marriage to Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow, was withdrawn by mutual consent at Bow street police court.

In withdrawing the charge, Sir Patrick Hastings, chief counsel for the $400,000 Woolworth five and ten cent store heiress, announced that the count had given an undertaking not to communicate with her in any way.

EARLE MAY CALL OUT TROOPS TO BLOCK INQUIRY

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 13.—(UP)—Pennsylvania political observers believed today that Gov. George N. Earle would declare martial law if necessary to prevent a grand jury investigation of his administration.

In a denunciation of the state supreme court and of the county judge assigned to conduct the inquiry, Earle told newspapermen that the investigation, scheduled to start Aug. 8, would be "nothing but political persecution."

Asked if he would call a special session of the legislature or declare martial law to stop the investigation, Earle said: "I said there would be no political persecution during my administration. You can underscore that."

The Dauphin county September grand jury was called last Monday to consider graft charges against the Earle administration, the judge commenting that "there is reasonable cause to believe that an investigation will disclose some criminal misconduct."

Manslaughter Laid to Leasure

KIDNAP CONFESSION IN MATTSON MYSTERY DOUBTED BY POLICE

BULLETIN

TACOMA, Wash., July 13.—(UP)—After further questioning of Frank Olson, 32, a farm laborer, who had confessed kidnapping and murdering Charles Mattson, State Police Chief William Cole announced today that the confession might not "stand up."

"Olson is a man of uncertain mentality," Cole said. "We will question him further, but I'm not sure the confession can be substantiated by facts."

Cole had announced Olson's confession last night after the suspect had been questioned since his arrest Friday night.

The federal bureau of investigation which has solved all the country's major kidnappings except this one and one other, and which has been seeking the kidnaper continuously since the Mattson child was stolen Dec. 27, 1936, was taken completely by surprise. Federal agents joined state police in questioning Olson and soon afterward Cole made his announcement.

JURORS INDICT ROSS COUNTIAN IN TWO DEATHS

Charge Grows From Auto Crash Fatal To Mr. And Mrs. Louis A. Crawford

15 TRUE BILLS FILED

Harry Litten to Face Trial for Auto Theft, Walter Fast For Alleged Threats

Beeman Leasure, 28, of the Brimstone district of Ross county, was indicted on two charges of manslaughter by the Pickaway county grand jury in its report Tuesday evening.

The jury returned 15 indictments, ignored 10 cases and questioned 48 witnesses during its two-day session.

Indictments against Leasure resulted from the deaths of Louis A. Crawford, and his wife, Lena, of Whillser, in an auto crash on Route 56 last May 9. Mr. Crawford was killed instantly. Mrs. Crawford died 10 hours after the accident.

Leasure is accused of driving when intoxicated when the accident occurred. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford were returning to their home after attending the Northwest Territory celebration in Circleville when the crash happened.

Five In Auto

Five Leasure brothers were riding in the car involved in the accident. Norman, 27, and Denver, 29, are in the county jail serving out fines of $100 and costs for intoxication. Wesley, 34, paid a similar fine. Alonzo was released.

Harry A. Litten, 47, of Walnut township, was indicted on a charge of auto theft. He is accused of taking the car of Harry Margulis, former mayor of Ashville, May 18.

Walter Fast, Derby, was indicted on charges making menacing threats and resisting arrest by John Stage, Jr., constable of Darby township, on April 15.

Indictments Listed

Other indictments were Daniel Gilmore and Walter Crissinger, Jr., Circleville, assault and battery; Ross Straley of near Williamsport and Clinton Fortner, Jackson township, operating autos (Continued on Page Two)

RAP AT DAVEY STIRS ROW AT DEMOCRAT MEET

FREMONT, O., July 13.—(UP)—Criticism of the Davey state administration by James Metzbaum, Cleveland lawyer and candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, led to a physical encounter on the speakers' platform at a political rally here last night.

Harry J. Halper, of Akron, another candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, jerked Metzbaum from his place at the microphone when Metzbaum charged that "a horde of shakedown artists infest the capitol at Columbus."

As Metzbaum clung to the microphone supports, W. J. Mead, Fremont attorney and chairman of the meeting, almost unbalanced Halper with a shove that sent him toward his seat. Former Governor George White, of Marietta, candidate for the nomination for U. S. senator and also a speaker at the rally, then pushed Halper into his chair.

Metzbaum, a former state senator, was counsel for the Ohio senate graft investigating committee which last Winter wrote a critical report on the state administration.

Halper, who followed Metzbaum as a speaker, apologized for his actions.

Gov. Davey retaliated against Metzbaum's remarks in his talk. Several times he referred to Metzbaum as a "whippersnapper" and "falsifier."

NATIONAL DEBT HEADS TOWARD FORTY BILLIONS

President Reveals New Deal Plans For Record Breaking Expenditures

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(UP)—President Roosevelt spread before the nation today the darkest budget estimates since 1936 with a forecast of record-breaking New Deal spending and a treasury deficit of approximately $4,000,000,000.

The report dealt with the fiscal year 1939. On the basis of figures presented today the treasury will be going into the red at the rate of about $7,500 a minute during the entire twelve months.

Mr. Roosevelt's out-of-season fiscal summation turned a corner in New Deal budget trends. It ended the period of increasing revenue, decreasing expenditures and diminishing deficits, but continued the national debt toward new high ground.

Cash To Flow

He estimated that the national debt would be $40,650,000,000 when the 1939 fiscal year ends in approximately 11½ months. In that period the New Deal plans to spend almost $9,000,000,000.

Charging responsibility for decreasing revenue and necessity of additional spending to "business recession," Mr. Roosevelt today revised the 1939 fiscal year budget estimates which originally were presented to congress when it convened last January.

ROOSEVELT IN NEVADA TO RAP PAT McCARRAN

ABOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SPECIAL TRAIN, En route to San Francisco, July 13.—(UP)—President Roosevelt, nearing the end of his trans-continental tour in behalf of "liberal" candidates, will make three appearances today in Nevada where Senator Pat McCarran is seeking reelection.

McCarran has been one of the leading anti-administration Democrats in the senate. It was not expected that Mr. Roosevelt would mention McCarran as one of the "forward looking" senators whom he would prefer to have in Washington.

McCarran will board the president's train as it enters Nevada. Albert Hilliard, opponent of McCarran, also will be a guest on the train. Hilliard is running on a platform of support for the New Deal.

WORK URGED FOR JAIL PRISONERS

Grand Jurors Ask That Wards Of County Pay For Keep By Building Roads

Grand jurors believe county prisoners should be worked. They included the suggestion in their report to Judge Meeker Terwilliger Tuesday evening. Their suggestion, to go to the commissioners, was "That the prisoners in Pickaway county jail be worked on the roads of Pickaway county or other labor during the period of confinement as provided by statute."

Neither the judge nor the jurors made any comment on the suggestion.

On several occasions in recent years the proposition of working prisoners had been discussed by the commissioners and Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

At the present time 30 prisoners are in the jail. The jurors reported they found conditions in the jail satisfactory.

WILLIAMSPORT FARMER KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Gene Cauley, 25, of Williamsport, employed on a farm in Perry township owned by John Dunlap, Jr., Williamsport, was killed shortly after 1 p. m. Wednesday when struck by lightning. Mr. Cauley was working on a separator when struck.

Three employees of Mr. Dunlap, Lloyd Cupp, of Perry township, Harry Keller, of Deercreek township, and Cauley, were covering the separator with canvas as a severe electrical storm was approaching.

The lightning struck Cauley in the head. The other men were shocked, but not seriously injured. An unusual feature of the accident was the fact the lightning did not hit the separator or damage it in any way. All the men were on the machine.

Cauley has lived in Williamsport for the last year. He is married, but has no children. The body was taken to London.

SHOWERS BREAK WAVE OF HEAT; MORE TO COME

Rain accompanied by an electrical storm drenched Circleville Wednesday afternoon. Scattered showers and cooler temperatures were predicted by the state weather bureau for late Wednesday and Thursday.

A light shower Wednesday morning brought cool breezes and held the mercury in the seventies. Tuesday's high was 91 degrees. Residents were given an opportunity to catch up on sleep, lost on sultry nights earlier in the week, when the temperature slumped to 62 Tuesday night.

NRLB ATTORNEY HUNG IN EFFIGY BY PROTESTERS

WEIRTON, W. Va., July 13.—(UP)—Steel workers and business men moved in clusters to the center of this little mill town today in preparation for a march to Steubenville, O., to protest against actions of an examiner of the national labor relations board—although he won't be there to see the demonstration.

For NLRB examiner Edward Grandison Smith late yesterday postponed until Thursday resumption of the "unfair labor practices" hearing against Weirton Steel company and at the same time the hearing from Steubenville to Pittsburgh.

Shortly after board attorneys loaded records of the hearings into a truck early today and, escorted by four Steubenville police officers, left for some place in West Virginia, a strawstuffed figure, bearing the name of Examiner Smith, was found hanging across the street from the federal building in Steubenville. Police cut the effigy down. Smith was believed to be at his home in Parkersburg, W. Va.

The place of hearing was changed suddenly by Smith, the Washington headquarters of the NLRB announced, because it was feared violence would break out when an estimated 5,000 steel men and merchants of Weirton and the adjacent community of Hollidays Cove move on Steubenville. Leaders of the movement previously had announced that the demonstration would be peaceful.

FARMER'S DEATH LAID TO HEAT

Ale (Babe) Thompson Dies After Brief Illness At Scioto Home

Illness resulting from being overcome by heat is blamed for the death of Ale (Babe) Thompson, Jr., 35, who died at his home in Scioto township at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. He had been ill four days. He was a farmer. The death was the first attributed to heat this Summer.

Mr. Thompson was born April 1, 1903 in Scioto township, a son of Ale, Sr., and Fannie M. Hoover Thompson. His first wife, Florence Heath, is deceased. Mr. Thompson was married April 4, 1928 in Circleville to Alice Hutchison.

Surviving are the widow, his mother, one son, Eugene, and four daughters, Martha, Mary, Shirley Ann and Georgia May, all at home; one brother, Jesse Thompson, Jackson township, and one sister, Mrs. Susan E. Hall of Circleville.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in the South Bloomfield Methodist church with the Rev. L. C. McCandish officiating. Burial will be in Harrison township cemetery under the direction of M. S. Rinehart.

Palbearers will be Joseph, James, Ray and John Hoover and Elzie and Paul Thompson.

ELMER THOMAS WINS; MURRAY IS DISCARDED

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 13.—(UP)—Oklahoma Democrats renominated Senator Elmer Thomas, President Roosevelt's "old friend," by a comfortable margin, results of Tuesday's primary showed today.

This apparent New Deal preference among Oklahomans was sweeping William H. (Alfaifa Bill) Murray, seeking nomination for governor, into the political discard. Although a Democrat, Murray, the former governor of Oklahoma's depression years, spoke out bitterly against the national administration.

Airmen Hope Fairbanks Will Be Last Stop On Trip To End Thursday

BULLETIN

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 13.—(UP)—Low stratus clouds and a light fog hung over the Bering sea today on the route Howard Hughes is taking to Fairbanks on his 'round-the-world flight.

Weather observers reported better conditions inland, however, with a ceiling of 3,000 feet. Visibility was 20 miles.

Arrangements were complete at Fairbanks airport to receive the millionaire-sportsman flier and his four companions.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, July 13.—(UP)—Howard Hughes' flight headquarters here received a message from the U. S. army radio station at Seattle, Wash., today reporting a message from the flier.

Hughes radioed he was flying at 6,200 feet altitude and was following the great circle course to Fairbanks, Alaska, from Yakutsk, Siberia.

The flier announced he intended to report his position at regular intervals to the U. S. government radio station at Anchorage, Alaska.

MOSCOW, July 13.—(UP)—Howard Hughes took off at 8:01 a. m. today on his breath-taking flight around the world from Yakutsk, Siberia, headed across the sub-arctic wastes for Fairbanks, Alaska, 2,457 miles away.

Hughes expected to make the perilous flight across Eastern Siberia and the Bering strait to Alaska without a stop, and from Fairbanks to complete his record flight by a non-stop trip to New York. When they left Yakutsk, Hughes and his four companions in the twin-engined New York World's Fair 1939 were 5,837 miles from New York and 8,911 miles lay behind them, much more than half way around the world.

Their elapsed time on departure was 6 hours and one minute and the flying time 42 hours and 21 minutes.

SEADLUND CALM AS HOUR NEARS FOR DEATH WALK

CHICAGO, July 13.—(UP)—John Henry Seadlund, who reigned briefly as the nation's public enemy No. 1, ate his last breakfast today.

At 12:02 a. m. (CST) tomorrow, he will die in the Cook county jail electric chair for the kidnapping that resulted in the murder of Charles S. Ross, 72-year-old retired Chicago greeting card manufacturer.

In his basement cell, the 28-year-old northwoods lumberjack faced death with the same deliberate calmness that has marked his actions since his capture last January. He read adventure stories, wrote farewell letters to his mother, sister and brother-in-law and received spiritual comfort from the catholic chaplain at the jail.

Three guards watched over the condemned man. The government, shrouding its plans in strict secrecy, barred all visitors from his cell. The story of Seadlund's activities, however, leaked through via the jail's "grapevine."

Three hours before the execution, Seadlund will be transferred to a death cell. There, he will partake of his last meal, if he wishes to eat, and shortly after midnight will walk the "last mile" to the execution chamber.

MILL WORKERS BATTLE AND 30 FALL IN FIGHT

WESTWOOD, Calif., July 13.—(UP)—Lumber mill workers of two warring unions battled through the streets here today and one man was shot and 30 others were injured in hand-to-hand fighting in which fists, clubs and axes were used.

More than 2,000 men were in the tangled, battling mass. Sheriff James Small and deputies turned fire hoses on the men, but the workers overpowered the small group of officers and went on with their fighting. Men fell unconscious to the street and were trampled.

The fighting started when members of the Industrial Employees Union, an independent organization, marched through town announcing they intended to clear the place of striking members of the Sawmill and Lumber Workers Union, a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate. The strike resulted in a company order "permanently" closing the big plant here, the town's only industry.

The invading force caught the CIO pickets by surprise and gained an early victory, but other CIO men hurried to the scene and in the counter attack the fighting became general.

First objective of the initial attack was the CIO soup kitchen. It was here that shots were fired. Witnesses said the defenders were armed with rifles. Six shots were fired before the defenders fled. The kitchen was torn apart.

of budget developments which had been maintained since June 30, 1936, followed by two days the treasury's announcement that revenue in the 1938 fiscal year just ended was the greatest in history.

On the basis of new estimates for the current fiscal year, however, the nation is now embarked on a 12-month period of record-breaking peace time spending.

No Devaluation

Significant in Mr. Roosevelt's revised estimates was a statement which excluded further dollar devaluation or other extraordinary maneuvers in meeting the 1939 budget problem. The big bill will be met by a combination of drawing on cash reserves, using social security and similar proceeds and finally borrowing from the public.

The staggering impact of changing conditions upon New Deal budget estimates of six months ago was indicated when the president reported that spending would be $2,116,000,000 more than he had expected last January and revenue would be off by $919,000,000.

Cases ignored were Cora Tattman, Helen Sowers, and Lee Griffen, Watt street, menacing threats; Charles Kuhn, Nathan Perkins, Charles Weaver, Sam Winfough, William Brown, Circleville, Joseph Hul, Orient, and Robert Bye, South Bloomfield, assault and battery, and Earl Messmore, Derby, cutting with intent to wound.

Arraignment of those indicted will be held Friday.

WALLACE READY TO SET RATES ON WHEAT LOANS

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(UP)

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will announce wheat loan rates today, department officials said.

Wallace has indicated that the rates will be near the minimum of about 60 cents a bushel, with deductions to be made for lower grades of wheat and for distances from central markets.

The new farm program made loans mandatory at between 52 and 75 percent of parity ($1.14 a bushel) if the July 1 crop estimate was above “normal demand”—approximately 750,000,000 bushels. The crop board Monday forecast a crop of 967,412,000 bushels—the second largest in American history. The loans will be made by the commodity credit corporation on money borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Agricultural adjustment administration officials said that all farmers who do not exceed their soil depleting acreage allotment by more than five percent will be eligible for loans if they have proper farm storage facilities.

OHIO TAX BOARD OKEHS MADISON SCHOOL BONDS

Ohio's tax commission Wednesday approved the request of the Madison township board of education to submit a $5,000 bond issue to voters for an addition to the school under P.V.A.

The proposed addition will house two toilet rooms and a classroom for the first and second grades. A frame building is now used for the two grades. This building would be sold.

Requests totalling $7,328,320 for bond issues throughout the state were approved Wednesday by the commission.

the record of the late Wiley Post by three full days.

They made the 2,158 miles from Omsk to Yakutsk in 10 hours and 31 minutes at a speed of 205.2 miles an hour.

Hughes planned to pass Anadyrsk, on the gulf of Anadyr on the Bering sea, and then follow the shore line to Providence bay, the northeastern tip of the Asiatic continent, with North America just across the strait. From there, he would head over Nome to Fairbanks.

The weather was fairly good towards Anadyrsk, but not so promising from there to Nome.

Russian administrative officials and airplane experts were waiting for the fliers when they arrived at little Yakutsk, capital of the Yakutsk republic, after a flight down the broad Lena river valley from the point at which they had left the trans-Siberian railroad.

Yakutsk lies two miles from the Lena, in an ancient valley along which no American plane ever had flown before. The river, which broadens there to a width of from nine to 11 miles, had only recently been freed of its ice; the ground had just thawed to leave the roads sticky with mud.

News of the arrival was announced at Moscow in a Tass agency message from Yakutsk: "13 July eight minutes past noon Moscow time Hughes landed Yakutsk."

The news had been awaited eagerly, for the American fliers had left charted courses and were flying in dangerous, sub-Arctic country, in which emergency landings would have been possible at but few places.

SALT CREEK VOTERS FAVOR TRI-COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION

BALLOT TAKEN AFTER OFFICIAL OUTLINES PLAN

Dick Smith Cites Necessity For Enrollment Of 200 To 300

MORE COURSES POSSIBLE

Agriculture And Economics On Regular Program Of Merged Institutions

Saltcreek township residents favor the proposed formation of a tri-county high school district.

About 60 residents attended the public meeting held Tuesday night for a discussion of the plan. When a vote was taken 47 favored the plan. None was opposed.

Dick Smith, assistant state director of education, explained the plan. He was introduced by James Reichelderfer, president of the Saltcreek board of education.

The tri-county district would be formed from Saltcreek township of Pickaway county, Adelphi-Harrison district of Ross county and the Laurelville-Perry district of Hocking county. A new school estimated to cost $150,000 would be erected near the intersection of Routes 56 and 180.

Smith Explains Plan

Mr. Smith explained the plan was proposed after Laurelville had planned a gymnasium-auditorium addition to its school to cost about $50,000. This plan was not approved by the state department. The proposed consolidation was then discussed.

All three schools have small enrollments. By the consolidation the new school would have an enrollment of between 200 and 300 pupils. Better diversified courses of study could be offered.

Mr. Smith warned Saltcreek residents the Saltcreek school cannot continue with a small enrollment for any length of time. The larger unit would give the district the opportunity to have Smith-Hughes vocational agriculture and home economics teachers.

Would Use Buildings

The present buildings in each district would be used for the elementary grades. This plan is the first to consolidate a Pickaway county school district with other districts. It would probably be the only tri-county consolidation in the state. Saltcreek school, due to its small enrollment, was removed from the first grade high school list last year. It was replaced this Spring on the approved list for two years.

Figures prepared by George McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway county schools, showed the tax duplicate of Saltcreek township amounts to $1,396,922. Laurelville has a tax valuation of $830,000, and Adelphi-Harrison, $375,000. Since Saltcreek has the highest valuation it would assume about 56 percent of the bonded debt necessary for the proposed new building. It would be built under P. W. A.

The Saltcreek meeting was the last of a series held in the three districts to obtain expressions of residents on the plan. The only opposition has been in the Harrison district. Others approved the plan.

Boards of education and school representatives of the three districts will meet Thursday evening in the Adelphi school to discuss results of the district sessions.

COL. STOOPNAGLE

When Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle appears as "guest wizard" at the "Town Hall Big Game Hunt" Wednesday night over the NBC-Red network, it will be as the weary Biblical traveler who returns at last to the land of myth.

As one half of the comedy team of Stoopnagle and Budd, the Colonel reached the heights of fame at the old Town Hall two years ago this summer when Fred Allen went on vacation. Some months ago, Stoopnagle and Budd agreed to a parting of the ways, and, as is often the case with those things, both have yet to find the success alone that they gained together.

In his Summer series at the Town Hall, the Colonel, dabbled in definitions, amateurs and poetry, but it was his many "inventions" that are best remembered. It was he who campaigned for the upside down lighthouse for submarines, the revolving fishbowl for tired goldfish, and wet envelopes to save the trouble of licking stamps. One of his inventions actually came to pass—a cellophane umbrella so you can see when it's raining.

As "guest wizard" the Colonel will compete at games with contestants from the studio audience under the aegis of Norman Prescott, the Big Game Warden, who is this summer's successor to Fred Allen. Jane Martin the winsome game expert, will act as referee, and Harry von Zell will handle the awards. Peter Van Steeden conducts the orchestra.

PASSING PARADE

There are details of many a true-life story that cannot be gathered in a day, a month or even a year, according to John Nesbitt, whose untiring work as a "news detective" is often revealed in his Sunday "Passing Parade" broadcasts over Columbia.

His yarn concerning one of the world's most clever international scoundrels, a feature of the "Passing Parade" broadcast for Sunday, July 17, is an example of Nesbitt's tenacity in sticking with a story over a period of years. It was four years ago that Nesbitt first ran across an account of this arch-villain and made a mental note to watch his future activities. Since then, he has gathered together every scrap of material he could find upon the man's fifty-year career in crime, and bit by bit pieced together the amazing chapters in his history.

That the ability of the creator of the "Passing Parade" to catalogue mentally the potential stories he stumbles upon is his great-

DODGER CRITIC SLAIN, ONE HURT BY IRATE FAN

Criticism Of Brooklyn Ball Team Brings Tragedy To Bar Room

MURDER THREAT IGNORED

Promise Of Killing Forgotten As Angry Man Leaves To Obtain Gun

NEW YORK, July 13.—(UP)—A baseball fan who couldn't take it killed one man and wounded another early today. Their offense: They had made remarks reflecting on the professional integrity of certain members of the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League.

The tragedy occurred in a Brooklyn bar room. The slayer was Robert Joyce, 33, a post office clerk. The victims were: Frank Harvey Krug, a clerk in one of the state offices at Albany, N. Y., who was killed by two bullets through the heart, and William J. Diamond, the bar tender, who was critically wounded and probably will die.

He Goes "Haywire"

"I must have gone haywire," Joyce said to police. The trouble started soon after yesterday's game in which the Brooklyn Dodgers, Joyce's favorite team, won a long-sought victory from the New York Giants, their arch foes in the National league. The score was 13-5.

As nearly as anybody could remember, Joyce started the argument by asking what everybody thought of the Dodgers now. He grew more voluble while consuming 18 glasses of beer, but he hadn't converted any Giants' fans to the Dodgers' cause. By 11 o'clock everybody was ribbing him, so he arose from his stool, announced that he was "going out and get two guns and shoot up this place," and walked out, reeling.

Killer Returns

He was quickly forgotten and things were carrying on as usual at the pale.

Two hours later, Joyce returned. There were a dozen men in the place. Joyce stepped to the bar, pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot Diamond.

Several men pounced upon him and bore him to the floor. Miller grabbed the gun and ran into the street, yelling for policemen. Joyce, meanwhile, wiggled free, arose and took another revolver from his pocket. He looked about for his antagonists and selected Krug and Robert Eagan, a federal clerk, from among them.

Ignoring the others, he forced these two into a back room. Eagan darted into a telephone booth. Krug was trying to crowd in with him, when Joyce began firing again. Two bullets pierced Krug's heart. As he collapsed, Joyce stepped up to the booth and called to Eagan:

"I goin' to kill you. What's your name?"

"My name's Eagan," Joyce said.

He turned then and started toward the street but ran into the arms of three policemen.

Joyce said he got the two guns from the postoffice substation where he worked.

est asset is proven in this particular case. A press clipping here, a secret service memo there, and a foreign police bulletin, located over a period of three years, helped bind together the story he sought. Then the trail ended. No further news of the man could be found until an unverified report arrived at Nesbitt's door that he was engaged in a gigantic oriental war plot. A thorough check proved the truth of the rumor, and now Nesbitt reveals to his listeners a documented account of one of the most amazing criminals of our generation—a sixty-year chronology of crime.

'BUY YOUR ICE CREAM FROM A FURNAS DEALER'

furnas Ice Cream The Cream of Quality

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

I don't believe that authors and artists are any more temperamental than anybody else. I believe that it's perfectly natural for anybody to be sensitive about something they create themselves.

I was talking to a sales manager of a firm out here the other day and he said, "I don't mind my stenographer chewin' gum, powdering, painting or loafing, but it sure gets me when she yawns while I'm dictating one of my snappy sales letters."

Donald Courtwright Voted Into Ashville Board

By S. D. FRIDLEY Ashville, Phone 79

The local school board at its meeting yesterday evening selected Donald Courtwright as the new member of the board, replacing Grover Cline who had resigned after a service of twenty-two years. Will have to commend the board in their choice and which we feel sure will meet with general approval. Peter Johnson was named to fill Mr. Cline's place on the Joint Ashville-Harrison board. Both the local and the joint boards will meet at the school building next Monday evening to select a janitor-caretaker for the coming school year. Mr. Allison's term of service by limitation of age will expire with this coming September first. This place requires a state licensed engineer.

What is known as Boyer's Camp at "Six Corner" on Route 23 has been sold, and the place, cottages and 12½ acres of ground, is now in possession of the new owner, Bernard and Mrs. Leist. Mr. Fred Bayer and his wife have been in the location just disposed of to the Leists, for the past fifteen years and have earned, they think a couple of week's vacation which they intend spending in Michigan. After their return they will occupy the building across the highway from their former home and conduct a filling station. There is an acre and a half in this tract which will be improved to fit their needs. No cottages will be erected for use.

J. M. Farmer and wife of Lockbourne were here yesterday. Mr. Farmer is the caretaker of Fernwood cemetery and some needed improvements, he said, are being made. . . . Clarence Rush is moving his electrical equipment and supplies from the mercantile room on Main street, and known as the Eit property to his home supply shop on the East side. . . . John Sark told us yesterday evening that the 135 acres of wheat in which he is interested is all threshed and safe from the weather. The average yield, he thinks, is about 15½ bushels per acre or a total of near 2100 bushels. A number of the farmers have reported yields of from 20 to 30 bushels per acre but none have equalled that of Leonard Kuhlwein, 47 bushels. This special plot contained, as we told you a couple of days ago, ten acres, and abutted the Scioto river and Columbus fertilizer was used in copious quantities. And what would be the verdict of the jury, if the city of Columbus should sue Mr. Kuhlwein for a fertilizer bill?

Mrs. Val Prushing who received burns the other day when working about her gas stove, is not in a serious condition. . . . Guilford McGlove who is teaching at Union Rural high school, having been there for some time, was a visitor in Ashville yesterday. He teaches the mathematics and science and has his masters degree, recently earned. The McGlove family were the former residents here but are now located at Athens. . . . Clyde and Mrs. Brinker attended the funeral of a cousin at Columbus today.

CITY FIREMEN DEFEAT BLAZE IN THRESHER

Fire in a threshing machine engine belonging to Luther Valentine, Washington township, was extinguished by Circleville firemen Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

The engine caught fire as the outfit was being moved near the intersection of Route 23 and the Walnut creek pike. Extinguishers were used. The damage was slight. Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the motor had stopped and it ignited when primed.

300 Children Registered In Playground Project

More than 300 Circleville children are now registered under the playground project being operated by W. P. A. The project is in its fourth week.

Playgrounds are being supervised at the High, Walnut and Corwin street schools. Twelve persons are supervising the children. Officials believe the enrollment will be doubled during the Summer as more children are reporting daily.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

Barking gangster guns, swing music, underworld intrigue and a hectic romance are combined to provide a fast-moving, suspenseful drama entitled "Night Spot," which is showing tonight and Thursday on a double bill at the Cliftona Theatre.

An unusual hero is seen in the person of Allan Lane, who plays a "musical cop," bringing a gang of jewel thieves to a rightfully earned justice by working in a night-club orchestra as a police undercover man. Lovely Joan Woodbury is cast as a hard-working secretary.

Parkyakarkus, as a dumb gangster; Gordon Jones, as Lane's buddy; Bradley Page, portraying the leader of the crooks in a suave, forceful and thoroughly menacing characterization; Lee Patrick, as Miss Woodbury's girl friend, and Jack Carson as one of Page's ruthless henchmen are others in the cast who earn mention for meritorious performances.

NON PARTISANS STAMP OKEH ON CHARLES SAWYER

COLUMBUS, July 13.—(UP)—Labor's non-partisan league of Ohio today endorsed 31 candidates on the primary ballot, including Charles Sawyer, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, and U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley, seeking Democratic re-nomination.

Sawyer's candidacy also was endorsed by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen lodges. William Rasey, Sandusky, chairman and legislative agent of the union, wrote to Ohio lodges that Sawyer "offers an honest, conscientious and efficient administration."

The non-partisan league also endorsed William J. Kennedy, incumbent, for secretary of state; Herbert S. Duffy, incumbent, for attorney general; Clarence H. Knisley, Democratic incumbent, and David Lewis, Republican, for nomination for treasurer.

For congressmen-at-large the league endorsed John McSweeney, incumbent, and Stephen M. Young, Cleveland Democrat.

The league, political voice of the Committee for Industrial Organization, accompanied endorsement of Sawyer with a denunciation of Gov. Martin L. Davey.

SUPERDREADNAUGHTS POSTPONED

MANY people, including naval experts, are relieved by the decision to postpone indefinitely the building of 45,000-ton battleships. It would be fine to have a couple of superdreadnaughts capable, in theory at least, of blowing any existing warship out of the water from a safe distance. But most of the experts seem agreed that, for the present at least, there are too many objections.

The two behemoths contemplated would cost at least $100,000,000 apiece, and for $200,000,000 a fleet of "pocket battleships" can be built that might be, on the whole, more effective. It takes much less time to build smaller fighting ships and the experts know how to build them without experimenting, whereas they would be taking some big chances on the giants. With smaller craft they avoid the technical risk of putting so many eggs into one basket. The big fellows might get into trouble going through the Panama Canal and might run aground in harbors safe enough for ordinary battleships. So we shall worry along for a while with a top weight of 35,000 tons.

Nobody is saying much about it, but the airplane and submarine problems, too, doubtless have something to do with the decision. The bigger they are, the easier marks the surface ships make. And no matter how heavily armored they may be, a lot of damage can be done by a ton of nitroglycerine dropped from a height of two miles. A hundred million dollars and a thousand lives might go at one crack.

EXAM SECURITY

THE modern insurance idea sweeps the world. It was bound to break into the field of college examinations, and yet when it does, and proves its values there, the phenomenon is a bit surprising.

The students, it should be explained, are not insured against failing in their exams, but against the financial loss connected with such failure. As worked out in Providence College, Rhode Island, by half a dozen undergraduates, the company collects insurance fees on a sliding scale, 35 cents for seniors and 50 cents for freshmen, guaranteeing to pay the cost of their make-up exams after failure. Otherwise the flunking students would have to pay $2 for the first effort to redeem themselves and $5 for the second.

It is good business to spread that cost by the usual insurance procedure, or at least the students think so. Several more colleges, including Princeton and the University of California, are said to be taking it up for next year.

Japan is thinking now of declaring war against China. That would be for the unpardonable offense of resisting the undeclared war.

World At A Glance

LACK OF outstanding candidates is likely to make the November election a dull affair, instead of the brilliant battle as was supposed to be. That is the public's loss.

A great to-do is made in metropolitan papers of the inability of New Dealers to put forth outstanding candidates in states where an anti-New Dealer is running for re-nomination. But the people of those states do not feel so happy regarding it. The people are not so much concerned with the New Deal and anti-New Deal aspect of the men, as their quality and ability. And that is not above medium on either side in the majority of contests.

A hotel barber brought this out vividly as he trimmed my hair in a state through which President Roosevelt was passing.

A BARBER'S VIEW

This is what the barber said: "The president gave a light tap on the shoulder to Senator So-and-So. Toe had he isn't a better man. But you could close your eyes and make a choice of either of the two men running for the Democratic nomination—and the same with the Republican. There is no sense of public responsibility in any of them.

"It is a bad thing for the nation. But the political machine still rules. And men who win through machines do lie-cross the people—or the machines won't let them win again."

"Roosevelt has been trying to smash the machines, but in every town and city, they still control, with few exceptions. I know. I have many politicians, from the lowest to the highest. They laugh when they discuss it. It's a game with them—and a man who doesn't know their game cannot win. A man of fine capabilities won't mix in with them—except, once in a while, when a Roosevelt and, yes, a Hoover comes along. But, in the end, the machine always is on top."

SO WHAT?

Well, what's to be done? "I'll tell you," said the barber. "Roosevelt must run again. Who else is there to fight for us?"

"Third-term precedent? Nonsense! When the nation needs a man, then new precedent must be made. Is there any man in sight to take over the vast problems of the country? Are we to let ourselves go to smash because some

FDR WENT TO JAT

BOARD THE PRESIDENT'S TRAIN—

The President should not have to go to great lengths to secure the re-nomination of his friend Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah, because he has already gone down the line for Thomas in a way which must have made Senator Robinson turn over in his grave.

For in the closing days of Congress, unobserved by the general public, Roosevelt sent to the Senate the name of Edgar Brossard for reappointment as a member of the Tariff Commission.

This appointment may be contrasted with the fact that Democratic attacks on Brossard once were just as bitter as the Republicans are in castigating Harry Hopkins for engaging in politics.

Brossard was Utah lobbyist for the Mormon beet sugar interests, whom Senator Reed Smoot, a high official in the church, got appointed to the Tariff Commission at a time when the tariff fixed on sugar was under consideration.

Later, when the Democrats forced an investigation of sugar, the late Senator Joe Robinson secured testimony from Brossard that he had had nothing to do with consideration of the tariff on sugar. But after this the books of the night watchman were produced showing that Brossard had come to the Tariff Commission every night that the sugar report was being written, sometimes remaining there until 2:30 a. m.

Criticism of Brossard was so intense that it was only the powerful influence of Senator Reed Smoot which secured his reappointment by Hoover in 1931. No Democrat dreamed, at that time, that a Democratic President would ever reappoint him for another seven years.

Nevertheless, Roosevelt did.

Reason: Senator Elbert Thomas is under fire from the Mormon church (one of the biggest sugar producers in the world), and it wanted Brossard re-appointed. So with Thomas facing a hard primary fight, the President obliged.

BUMPERS

They have a very neat system "on this train for getting rid of "visiting firemen" who persist in taking up the President's time. They use what the newsmen call "bumpers".

When a local politico has had the President's ear too long, one of his secretaries quietly signals a member of the White House party. The latter approaches and with a regretful smile to the visitor says, "Pardon me, Mr. President, but that matter you asked me to prepare for you is in your room."

"Thank you, thank you," the President replies and then to his caller, "You'll pardon me, won't you? Some papers that have to get off at once."

Suavest "bumper" on the train is Lawrence (Chip) Robert, secretary of the Democratic National Committee, whose Georgia charm and wit have few equals in the political arena.

Then, too, our Alaskans would have something to say about sending our eastern "reds" there, as Mayor Hague proposes.

We'd all like to spend our way out of our personal depression, too, if we had the wherewithal.

Fallacies About Human Hair Corrected

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Once a week in this column will be printed a discussion of a medical superstition. Readers are invited to contribute.

THAT MEN who have a great deal of hair on the body are possessed of great physical strength. There is no correlation between the growth of hair and vigorous bodily health. Some of the great strong men, such as Sandow, had almost hairless skin on the body. The old saying, "He has hair on the chest" indicating that a man is very virile has no basis in reality.

That hair grows after death. Erasmus Wilson, one of the great dermatologists, wrote as follows: "The lengthening of the hairs of the beard observed in a dead person is merely the result of the contraction of the skin toward the roots, and not a vital process continuing after the death of the individual; indeed, it is identical with a similar pushing of the hair which is known to take place in posthumous plaster casts; a mere result of contraction of the plaster, and occurring where growth from nutrition could never be suspected."

There is an old idea, widely prevalent, especially in Canada, that if a man shaves his upper lip his eyesight will weaken. In fact, our Canadian neighbors are quite convinced that the reason why so many Americans wear glasses is that moustaches are not so commonly worn here as in Canada. The officers and soldiers of the British army were ordered not to shave the upper lip until during the World war.

Why men wear beards and moustaches will always remain a mystery, although it is probably equally a mystery why they shave them off. The vogue of the moustache, beard and whiskers has had its ups and downs in historical times. In Egypt, where shaving was practically universal, artificial beards were worn on solemn occasions.

We know from the Bible that in patriarchal times to pull or strike the beard was a grave insult.

When Peter the Great, among his many reforms, ordered his officers to shave their beards and moustaches, he encountered tremendous opposition because the masses and the pious of all ranks thought this was a sinful defacing of the image of God.

When David Livingston returned to London and was feted at the Mansion House, he wore a moustache, about which one of the daily papers remarked: "He came braving the prejudices of his countrymen and thus evincing a courage only inferior to that exhibited by him amongst the savages of Central Africa."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clending can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. TWO WORLDS

BY MAUD McCURDY WELCH

Written for CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Determined to show Dr. Julian Paige, the man she is in love with, that she can make her own way in the world, Noel Shayne, wealthy society girl, burns her bridges behind her, moves to a rooming house and, for lack of anything better, obtains a job as a taxi dancer which she feels will be only temporary. She is living with a girl named Laurie Evans whom she met in the park. Noel feels she has a dangerous rival in Ruth Chester, Julian's pretty nurse, who has been antagonistic to Noel since her identity to Nick Luigi, the proprietor, Julian calls Noel to take her to dinner before leaving town on a case. She evades him when he asks where she is working. That night a man follows her home from the dance hall.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 10

THE MAN who had followed Noel home the night before was at the Peacock the next evening. He sat alone in the opposite corner of the divan from where Luigi usually sat.

When the Peacock closed that night, he followed her again, keeping a distance behind her of some 15 or 20 feet, not making any attempt to catch up with her.

This time Noel was convinced that the stranger was following her. It caused her more anxiety for him to walk behind her, keeping the same distance, than it would have if he had walked up and accosted her. Then she would have known that he was just an ordinary masher and would have quickly put him in his place. She couldn't imagine why he should shadow her. Did he have designs on her precious $2?

Noel went into the house, her breath coming rapidly. She hadn't dared look behind her when she had come up on the porch of the Court street house, but she had a feeling that the man had stopped on the street in front and was still standing there.

Laurie was in bed, but she was awake, and she knew at once by Noel's expression that something was wrong. When Noel told her, she got up and peeped through a tiny slit she made between the shade and the window. It was true. A man was standing on the sidewalk gazing at the house. But it was too dark to see his face.

"What do you suppose he wants?" Noel asked, her voice tremulous.

"Now, don't worry, Noel," Laurie said comfortingly. "He's just probably got a crush on you, and wanted to know where you lived—just somebody from the Peacock who danced with you."

But Laurie's words were not very reassuring. Noel thought she had recognized the man she had seen at Luigi's tonight as the same man who had followed her last night. She still couldn't be sure. But she couldn't help feeling there was a sinister purpose behind it all. Everything was going wrong.

Nick Luigi had come out boldly and asked her to have a little dinner with him in his apartment which was on the top floor of the dance palace.

That had happened just as Noel was leaving. She had told Luigi that she was very tired and wanted to go home.

"All right then, baby," he had agreed. "I can be patient, but don't make me wait too long."

Noel had felt that there was a threat in his low, tight-lipped voice. She felt worried about it. And then there was the rent.

"Listen, Laurie," she began, "here's the $2 for tonight, and with the two from last night, Mrs. Blarson ought to be satisfied for a while. We can do without eating until—well, indefinitely, I suppose," she finished with a poor attempt at a laugh.

To Noel's surprise, Laurie's little freckled face was all smiles. "Now you listen," she exclaimed. "I've got a job, and I've also got future and cubistic art. If Germans insist on having their surrealism from now on they must get it from Der Fuehrer's speeches."

In England they are suggesting gas mask golf games in order to get sportsmen accustomed to wearing the gadgets. Not a bad idea—it prevents the players from talking about their game.

$5. So we won't have to do without food."

"And we won't have to duck out, will we?" Noel exclaimed, and sank into a chair with a feeling of relief. "Well, we are progressing," she exclaimed a minute later. "We've both got jobs of—sorts. We can pay the rent and still eat."

Noel looked about the room, which Laurie's efforts had made far more bearable. The curtains were back at the windows, and were actually white and crisp, although a little ragged. The rug looked more faded, but it fairly blushed with cleanliness. Once she had wanted to turn from the room in horror. Now it seemed friendly, even the grotesque old pitcher sitting in the bowl on the funny washstand was like an old friend.

Laurie's news was still more surprising. For her job was that as cashier in the De Luxe cafe, where the former cashier had married unexpectedly.

When Noel thought of Laurie being in the De Luxe, just across from the Medical Arts, she was conscious of a stab of envy. Why, every day Laurie could look out the plate glass window and see Julian as he went in and out the revolving doors of the building. Laurie of course, didn't realize what a privilege that would be.

Impulsively Noel decided to tell Laurie a little about Julian, so she would at least recognize him when she saw him.

"I sometimes have lunch or dinner with a young doctor friend at the De Luxe," she began. Then told her his name, and gave a brief description. "You'll probably see him."

Laura smiled. "Lots of the doctors take their meals at the De Luxe, and the nurses, too. There's a clinic in the building."

"Yes, I know," Noel nodded. Laurie's words naturally made her think of Ruth Chester, so competent, so crisp and immaculate in her white uniforms and white square-heeled shoes, and so darkly pretty.

She wondered if Ruth Chester was with Julian in New Orleans. She probably was by now, she decided. And New Orleans was such a romantic city with its French quarter, and the old, old houses with their little balconies and "iron lace" and all the beautiful century-old trees with the Spanish moss hanging so gracefully from their branches.

New Orleans was an ideal city for lovers. And no matter whether she realized how Ruth Chester felt toward him or not, she would press every possible advantage. In her mind's eye, Noel could see them together there, driving around under the soft southern

So Noel called Julian's office. To her surprise Ruth Chester's rich, contralto voice answered. There seemed to be a slight hesitation at her end of the wire when Noel asked if Doctor Paige had returned. Then Ruth told her that Doctor Paige was not back yet. He would probably be away several days longer.

Anyway, Ruth wasn't with him, Noel thought happily. But that night when she came home from the Peacock, Laurie told her that Doctor Paige had been at the De Luxe for lunch. She had recognized him by Noel's description, also because she had heard someone call him Doctor Paige. So Ruth Chester had lied.

100 Guests Present At Session of Highway Club

Hill Speaks on Unemployment Situation

Approximately 100 were present for the session of the Highway Social Get-Together club, Tuesday evening, at Gold Cliff Chateau park.

Boyd Hill and Mr. Potts of the state unemployment compensation office, Columbus, were present for the affair, Mr. Hill giving the address of the evening. Mr. Hill gave a definite outline of the unemployment situation in Ohio and told many interesting details of the work of the office in relieving it.

Mrs. William Justus, chairman of the Pickaway county Democratic Women's club of the highway division, gave a few remarks followed by a brief talk by Lawrence Goeller, chairman of the Pickaway Democratic club. John Ward of the state liquor control department gave a short talk. An informal social hour followed.

Following the new plan of the club in honoring certain members of the group at each meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mowery were guests of honor, Tuesday evening. Pie, ice cream and coffee were served by the hospitality committee which was comprised of Mrs. Henry McCrady, Mrs. Frank Palm and Mrs. Beck Arledge. Plans for the August session are incomplete.

Loyal Daughters' Picnic

The picnic meeting of the Loyal Daughters' class of the United Brethren church was held on the community house lawn, Tuesday evening. Forty eight members and their children enjoyed the picnic lunch served at 7 o'clock.

A brief business session in charge of Mrs. Elizabeth Valentine followed the lunch. During this time plans were discussed for another picnic with a covered dish lunch.

The hospitality committee including Mrs. Leslie Dancy, Mrs. Wava Poling, Mrs. William Koehensparger and Mrs. Violet Smalley served cold drinks and ice cream. Mrs. T. C. Harper was a guest of the class for the evening. A formal program was omitted for the affair, outdoor games being the diversions of the evening.

Yo-Yo Club

Mrs. Martha Nulf and Mrs. Katie Ludford joined the members of the Yo-Yo club, Tuesday, when Mrs. Ralph Long was hostess at her home in E. Franklin street. All members were present for the pleasant evening passed in sewing and visiting.

Bouquets of larkspur and hydrangeas were effectively used in the rooms of the home for the affair.

Mrs. Long served a salad lunch at the close of the hour of sewing. The club will recess for several weeks, the next meeting being planned for August 9, at the home of Mrs. Ida Oakley of Watt street.

Informal Luncheon

An informal luncheon was entertained, Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Edward Valentine, Ringgold Pike. Covers were placed for Mrs. John B. Mast and daughter, Miss Helen, of Washington township and their guests, Miss Ethel Mast, Mrs. Frank Rolis and daughters, Mary and Alice, and Mrs. Harvey Whidney of Zanesville.

Mrs. Mettler Hostess

Mrs. Melvin Mettler of E. Main street was hostess to her card club, Tuesday evening. Mrs. John Ward and Mrs. Harry Bartholomew joining the players for the session.

When scores were tallied at the close of the games prizes were awarded Mrs. Walter Heise and Miss Frances Barnes. Mrs. Mettler received the traveling prize.

A dessert course was served at the small tables by the hostess, during the social hour.

Miss Rose Good will entertain the club in two weeks.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dickerson of London announce the engagement and coming marriage of their daughter, Ruth Marie, to the Rev. John Robert Himes, son of the

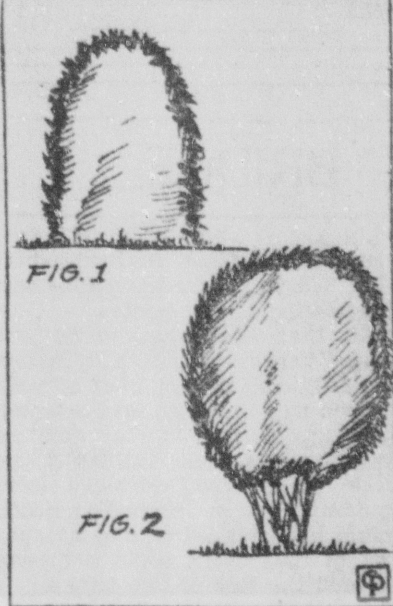

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

PRUNING at this season of the year consists mainly of keeping the hedges clipped. Evergreen hedges should be sheared lightly in the spring and again in mid-summer. Do not shear them too late in the summer, however, as the new growth might not harden off enough before freezing weather sets in.

Shown in Fig. 1 of the Garden-Graph is a hedge that was clipped often when growing, keeping it compact at the bottom. Fig. 2 shows a hedge that was allowed to grow too tall before clipping started to force new undergrowth.

Hedges should always be trimmed wider at the bottom than at the top. This allows sunlight to reach the bottom branches and stimulate growth there.

When using salt or a strong weed killer along drives and walks, be careful to keep it away from sections near the roots of trees, shrubs and evergreens. The weed

CONTRACT BRIDGE

BOOMERANG DOUBLES

NOT ALL boomerangs are made of wood. Some of them are fashioned from wooden thinking at the bridge table. This is particularly true of penalty doubles which advertise to the declarer exactly what dangers beset him and hence steer him unerringly to the only line of play with a chance to succeed.

South's opening bid on this deal was 1-Spade. North jumped this to 3-Spades and South bid 4-Clubs.
Next North bid 4-Hearts, South
5-No Trumps and North 6-Spades, which West doubled, and South redoubled.
West led the diamond 10, and when the dummy was exposed it was quite evident to South that what West held for his double was the missing trump honors.

All that South had to do was guess West's probable distribution—correctly, run that number of leads in each suit and then lead a trump to West. Played in that manner, he limited his losses to exactly one trick. Had West refrained from doubling, it is probable South would have played trumps at once and in that event could not have avoided the loss of two tricks.

PIRATES LEAP TO FIRST SPOT; REDS VICTORIOUS

Bill Terry Discovers That Dodgers Still Are In National League

NEW YORK, July 13—(UP)—
Five years ago Bill Terry face-tiously asked a sports writer, "Is Brooklyn in the league?"

The answer today is the same as it was that September when the hated Dodgers rose in their wrath and knocked the Giants out of the 1934 pennant race. In fact the answer today is—"yes" doubled in spades.

Poor, bedraggled, hated, laughed at, humble Brooklyn knocked the lordly Giants off their National league perch yesterday. All the insults the Dodgers have had to take this season were revenged in one cyclical first inning in which Brooklyn smashed out eight runs.
The Dodgers then went on to win
13-5 and sent the Giants tumbling to second place.

Pittsburgh, climbing at the most terrific pace any major league club has achieved this season,
soared into the National league lead by winning its 13th straight game—a 14-6 victory over the fading Chicago Cubs. It was the Cubs' sixth straight defeat.

Continuing to move up in the pennant race, the Cincinnati Reds knocked off the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-5, for their fifth straight victory. The Reds are now 4½ games behind the Pirates. Wally Berger's single and Clyde Shoun's wild throw were the big factors in the Reds' winning two run rally in the eighth.

The New York Yankees led by their way to within half a game of the American league lead by winning twice from the St. Louis Browns, 7-3 and 10-5, while the pace-setting Cleveland Indians fell before Washington, 9-8. Red Ruffing scored his twelfth victory in the opener, holding the Browns to eight hits and driving in three runs himself. Lou Gehrig hit homer
No. 14 in the opener and Joe Di-Maggio kept pace with him by hitting his 14th in the nightcap.

Despite Sammy Hale's clouting the Indians lost the first game of their Eastern division, to the Senators. Hale made four hits, including a ninth inning homer that tied the score, only to have the Senators win in their half when an outfield fly allowed the winning run to score.

Scoring six runs in the first inning the Chicago White Sox beat the Athletics, 8-6. Mike Kreevich and Joe Kuhel hit homers as the White Sox drove Lynn Nelson to cover. Monty Stratton scored his seventh victory.

No other games were played.

DREAM LEADS SEARCHERS TO FIND BODY IN RIVER

MARATHON, N. Y. (UP)—A man's dream, authorities of this little village say, enabled them to locate the body of a woman who was drowned in Tioughnioga river.

The woman perished when her automobile skidded off the road and plunged into the creek.
For seven days boatloads of volunteers dragged the river for the body without success.

On the eighth day, William Knapp, a truck driver, reported that he had a dream during the night that the body had been found off a cove in the river.

Playing a hunch, the searchers quickly found the body.
